

I Am An Iceberg

poem by Louanne Piccolo | illustrated by Tohby Riddle

I am an iceberg, sturdy and bold,
floating on currents, rapid and cold.
Penguins and walrus, reindeer and whale,
polar bear, arctic hare watch me set sail.
They holler from Greenland, 'Have a good trip!'
As southward I travel, you see only my tip.
I am an iceberg, smaller, still strong,
chasing the currents, now rapid and warm.
Caribou, wolverine, salmon and geese wave as I enter the Labrador Sea.
'Welcome!' they shout, 'Stay here, don't go!'
I'd love to but icebergs must follow the flow.
I am an iceberg, smaller, still here ...
I am an iceberg, smaller ...
I am an iceberg ...

I am an ...

I am ...

I ...
